

Injury Awards

As a result of an injury, a qualified individual may apply when the injury occurs while on duty or performing his/her assigned duties. The injury event must be as a result of the individual's legitimate, lawful actions. Awards are to be based, generally, upon the level and type of injury.

Any award provided as a result of such an event shall be directed toward the reasonable expenses stemming from the event and not covered by other legitimate and available sources. Temporary, reimbursable awards shall be allowed to cover expenses for which future payments from other sources may become available. These awards may be subject to re-payment upon receipt of such future payments from other sources.
